I was really struck by the importance of consistent, stringent infection control procedures; I was surprised by the numbers of infections that are needlessly passed on due to poor or non-existent procedures.

By reviewing our current practice and comparing it to the current standard, I was able to change the written policy in the clinic, and I was able to educate the staff on the new standards.

I also learned that my co-workers were unsure of what was considered best practice and were very pleased with the information that I could provide them.

I have created a safer environment for our clients and have protected my co-workers from potentially harmful situations.
